

Tania (Soultana) Pantazi holds an undergraduate degree (Bachelor) in Law, a postgraduate degree (LLM) in International Law, and a PhD in commercial and economic law from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki Law School. Her PhD thesis concerns passenger rights in air transport contracts. She is a postdoctoral fellow at the University of the Aegean, Department of Business Administration since 2021 on the subject of state aid in the aviation sector.

She has been an adjunct lecturer in private and public law at the International Hellenic University, Department of Economic Sciences and an associate teaching staff in tourism law and EU competition law at the Hellenic Open University.

Her research interests focus on consumer law, European law, travel and hospitality law, competition law and state aid, transport law, as well as sustainability considerations in private law.

Selected recent publications:

- Tania Pantazi, State aid to airlines in the context of Covid-19: damages, disturbances and equal treatment, Journal of European Competition Law and Practice 2022 (4), 268-277
- Tania Pantazi, Legal requirements for state aid in air transport (in greek), Hellenic Review of European Law 2022 (2), 189-198
- Tania Pantazi, Regulating short-term rentals: Joined cases C-724/18 and C-727/18 Cali Apartments, Maastricht Journal of European and Comparative Law 2021 (4), 573-581
- Tania Pantazi, The Proposal for a Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive and potential implications for consumer law, Παρουσίαση στο συνέδριο Corporate Responsibility and Liability in relation to Climate Change-UCALL, Utrecht University (19/05/2022)
- Tania Pantazi, 'I Know that I Know Nothing': Extraordinary Circumstances in Air Passenger Rights Regulation, European Review of Private Law 5/2020 (5), 1093-1112